

Transparent Civil Society Initiative – Information about Siemens Stiftung

Siemens Stiftung supports clear and transparent communication with the public regarding the foundation's structure, its goals, and the source and application of its funds. For this reason, we are happy to be members of the Transparent Civil Society Initiative since September 30, 2010.

We see this as our contribution to a coalition that is as far-reaching as possible and pursues action within civil society focused on the essential parameters for effective transparency. This voluntary commitment was developed under the guidance of Transparency International Germany. It requires organizations to disclose ten precisely-defined, relevant pieces of information to the public in an easily accessible form.

Below you will find the information submitted by Siemens Stiftung. Please contact us if you have further questions about Siemens Stiftung or individual projects: info@siemens-stiftung.org.

2. Goals and articles of association

Siemens Stiftung was established in September 2008 to sustainably strengthen the social responsibility and commitment of Siemens AG. Siemens Stiftung aims to empower people to actively address today's social challenges. Together with partners, the foundation designs and implements local and international projects that promote individual responsibility and self-initiative.

The foundation is involved in the fields of development cooperation, education, and culture. Siemens Stiftung pursues an integrative approach and stands for responsible, impact-oriented and innovative project work that is concentrated in Africa, Latin America and Germany/Europe.

In addition to the internationally-oriented Siemens Stiftung with its headquarters in Munich, there are currently six national Siemens foundations located in Argentina, Brazil, Denmark, France, Colombia and the United States. As part of the Global Alliance of Siemens Foundations, the foundations cooperate on several projects and create synergy effects at both the local and international level.
